ABSTRACT

The directory identifies resources which provide services to cerebral palsied, epileptic, and mentally retarded citizens of Florida. Listed are names and addresses of Divison of Retardation facilities; private agencies such as the Florida Association for Retarded Children, the Epilepsy Foundation of America, and United Cerebral Palsy of Florida; and public agencies under the Department of Health and Rehabilitative Services (including the divisions of Family Services, Mental Health, and Children's Medical Services). A key to use of the directory, a map of Florida (showing the counties and the 11 Division of Retardation regions), and a diagram showing the structure of Department of Health and Rehabilitative Services are provided. The major portion of the directory lists local organizations (divided by regions) alphabetically by counties and gives information such as services provided, fees, and criteria for acceptance of clients. Also included are definitions of services (such as evaluation and treatment), a list of residential facilities, an alphabetical index to agencies and organizations included in the directory, and a list of Florida cities and the counties in which they are located. INTRODUCTION

The resources identified in this Directory all provide services to the developmentally disabled citizens of Florida. The major function of this Directory is to be a comprehensive information source for the location and description of these services. An equally important function is the stimulation of a spirit of cooperation among those who serve persons with cerebral palsy, epilepsy, and/or mental retardation.

The Directory should be used as a tool in the development of communication and coordination among government agencies, private organizations and associations that serve the developmentally disabled. To improve services for the developmentally disabled requires the concerted efforts of all providers, and to work together to acheive such a goal, we must first know each other. It is with this intent and spirit that the Directory of Resources has been compiled, printed and distributed.

"KEY" TO USE OF DIRECTORY

1. Information on private community agencies is available alphabetically within each Florida county.

2. You must know the name of the county in order to quickly locate information. Therefore, if you have information on a city or town, refer to the City - County Index, (page 218).

3. Turn to the county listings for detailed information on services, facilities, etc. Many agencies serve as a resource for a single category of the Developmentally Disabled. Please refer to Criteria for Acceptance of Clients to determine if a certain resource (agency) appropriately meets your needs.

4. A map of Florida, including the counties and the eleven Division of Retardation regions is provided on page 42.

5. A list of Florida cities and the counties in which they are located is provided in the back of the directory.

6. A code to the abbreviations and levels of disabilities used in the Directory are listed below.

Mental Retardation (MR)

I. Mild (50-70 IQ)
II. Moderate (30-50)
III. Severe (20-35)
IV. Profound (0-20)

Cerebral Palsy (CP)

I. Patients with cerebral palsy with no limitations of activity
II. Patients with cerebral palsy with slight to moderate limitations of activity
III. Patients with cerebral palsy with moderate to great limitations of activity
IV. Patients with cerebral palsy completely unable to carry on any self-directed physical activity

Epilepsy (EP)

I. Predominatly controlled seizures
II. Unpredictable seizures

DEFINITIONS OF SERVICES

Evaluation Services

The application of techniques for the systematic appraisal of pertinent physical, psychological, vocational, educational, cultural, economic, legal, environmental and other factors of the developmentally disabled individual and his family, (1) to determine how and to what extent the disabling conditions may be expected to be removed, corrected, or minimized by services; (2) to determine the nature and scope of services to be provided; (3) to select the service objectives which are commensurate with the developmentally disabled individual's interests, capacities and limitations; and (4) to devise an individualized program to action; to be followed, at the intervals needed, by periodic reappraisals.

The particular techniques to be used will depend on the particular service to be provided and on personal factors such as the developmentally disabled individual's age and functional level, primary and other disabilities, among others.

Diagnostic Services

The provision of coordinated services, including, but not limited to, psychological services, social services, medical and other services necessary to identify the presence of a developmental disability, its cause and complications, and to determine the extent to which the disability limits (or is likely to limit) the individual's daily living and work activities.

Treatment Services

Provision of coordinated interventions which halt, control or reverse processes which cause, aggravate or complicate developmental disabilities. The interventions may include dental and medical treatments, such as surgical procedures, psychiatry, dietary controls, or chemotherapy; physical therapy; occupational therapy; behavioral modification (as defined by the American Psychological Association); speech therapy; counseling and others as indicated by the needs of the developmentally disabled individuals being served.

Daycare Services

Comprehensive and coordinated sets of activities providing personal care and other services to pre-school, school-age and adult developmentally disabled individuals outside of their own homes during a portion of a 24-hour day. Services include a variety of creative, social, physical and learning activities based on an appropriate evaluation and designed to provide at least personal care, training, counseling and recreation services carried out under careful supervision. They may be organized as either:

a. Developmental Services for Children

Activities emphasizing maturation of children and supplementing the services being provided by their parents or parent surrogates; or

b. Activity Programs for Adults

Activities which emphasize occupational and social goals which assist adults to become as self-dependent as possible and to make constructive use of leisure time.

Daycare services may be appropriate for developmentally disabled children not yet ready for formal training programs, for children who need supervision after school hours (including weekends and vacation periods) and for developmentally disabled adults too seriously handicapped to participate in education, training or sheltered employment services. Daycare services must provide more than supervision. The program must provide activities which will minimize handicaps and encourage functional development. Daycare differs from Training in the purpose, focus and intensity of its programming. It is intended to approximate the stimulation and training which can be provided by knowledgeable, concerned parents. For adults, Daycare should provide pleasant and constructive occupations which have meaning to the adults involved and encourage continuing development.

Training Services

Provision of a planned and systematic sequence of instruction in formal and informal activities based on appropriate evaluation and objectives, designed to (1) develop skills in performing activities of daily living including self-help, motor and communication skills; (2) enhance emotional, personal and social development, or (3) provide experiences for gaining useful occupational and pre-vocational skills.

Training services may be provided to preschool children to accelerate development and to compensate for deficiencies related to their disabilities; to school-age children not yet ready for or excluded from formal education services; and for adults who need occupational skills but whose abilities severely limit their work output.

Education Services

Provision to developmentally disabled children and adults not eligible for public school classes (regular or special) of structured learning experiences, based upon appropriate evaluations, through the use of a broad and varied curriculum of practical academic subjects primarily designed to develop ability to learn and acquire useful knowledge and basic skills, and to improve the ability to apply them to everyday living.

Sheltered Employment Services

Provision of a structured program of activities, involving work evaluation, work adjustment, occupational skill training and paid, part-time or full-time employment for those who cannot be readily absorbed into the labor market because of severe disability(ies). Such services may be provided in a center or in the developmentally disabled individual's place of residence.

Recreation Services

Provision of planned and supervised activities designed to (1) help meet specific individual therapeutic needs in individual self-expression, social interaction and entertainment; (2) develop skills and interests leading to enjoyable and constructive use of leisure time; and (3) improve well-being.

Personal Care Services

Services designed to maintain health and well-being, including the provision of food, shelter and clothing as required, to prevent regression and other complications. Personal care services must be provided in conjunction with one or more other appropriate services.

Domiciliary Care Services

Provision of living quarters, personal care, and supervision for persons needing care on a 24-hour-a-day basis.

Domiciliary care services differ from Special Living Arrangements by the degree of supervision and the amount of personal care provided. It may be provided in such quarters as nursing homes, foster homes, or other residential facilities.

Special Living Arrangements Services

Provision of living quarters for persons who need some degree of supervision. Special Living Arrangements Services must include at least counseling and leisure time activities.

Special Living Arrangements Services are for developmentally disabled persons who can leave the place of residence, for work, recreation or other reasons. Such persons will probably not be heavily dependent on Personal Care Services, which may be less intense than in Domiciliary Care, or may be omitted, depending on the needs of the persons served.

Counseling Services

Giving of professional guidance on the basis of knowledge of human behavior and the use of special interpersonal skills to achieve specified goals, such as making determination of appropriate resources, assisting the developmentally disabled individual and his family to understand his capacities and limitations; setting of short and long range goals, including vocational; and providing solutions to problems that interfere with the developmentally disabled individual's participation in needed services. The professional discipline of the counselor will depend on the goals and nature of the counseling service.

Information and Referral Services

The basic service is the provision of an up-to-date, complete listing of all appropriate resources from which appropriate selections can be made available and quickly accessible to professional persons serving the developmentally disabled individual and his family. It is important that a professionally responsible person be the point of contact between the individual or family and the information and referral service, so that it may be advisable to provide a counseling service in connection with the Information and Referral Service. It is also highly advisable for a skilled, professional person to develop the listing in order to provide linkages with the other agencies; but it is not necessary for the staff who search the listings for particular resources to be professional.

Follow-Along Services

Establishment and maintenance of a counseling relationship on a life-long basis with developmentally disabled individuals and their families, as desired, for the purpose of assuring that anticipated changes in needs and/or needs arising from crises are recognized and appropriately met.

Protective and Other Social and Socio-Legal Services

Provision of a system of continuing legal, social and other appropriate services designed to assist individuals who are unable to manage their own resources or to protect themselves from neglect, exploitation or hazardous situations without assistance from others and to help them exercise their rights as citizens.

Transportation

Provision of necessary travel and related costs in connection with transporting developmentally disabled individuals and where necessary, members of their families, to and from places in which they are receiving other services. Transportation may also include taking services to the homebound as well as delivery of raw materials and pick up of the finished product from homebound industries, where indicated.

Residential Facility

A facility open for care and treatment of the mentally retarded on a 24-hour-a-day basis, providing diagnosis (and evaluation), treatment, education, training, custodial care (personal care) or sheltered workshop services.
